

1. A _____ is a detailed, ordered list of every shot you need, noting subject, framing, and location — your roadmap for shoot day.
2. Explainer video scripts are often written in a _____ - _____ format: one column shows what's seen (Video), the other shows what's heard (Audio/narration).
3. _____ means sketching a video's key shots in sequence, panel by panel, to plan composition and story flow before filming.
4. An _____ is a written plan noting which clips go where, and in what order, in the finished edit.
5. A _____ is a word-for-word written record of everything spoken in a video's audio — used for captioning and reviewing dialogue.
6. Why plan a script in two columns instead of one paragraph of narration? What could go wrong on shoot day without this paperwork?

Discuss: Reference your Design Brief — which of its criteria and constraints does your script need to satisfy?