

arc • attribution • bullet-point scripting • hot mic • live-to-tape • Two-Way

1. A _____ is a radio term for a conversation between a host and a guest — natural-sounding, but still prepared.
2. _____ means writing key facts as bullets, not full sentences, so delivery stays natural.
3. Telling the listener out loud where information came from is called _____.
4. The logical order of questions that makes an interview feel like a story is called the _____.
5. Treating every mic as if it's live the moment you sit down is the _____ mindset.
6. Recording a full take start to finish without stopping is called _____.

Discuss: Your partner's Roadmap got tangled in technical jargon and you got confused. What's the fix before recording day?